DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 9/28/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to the arguments in the Remarks filed on 9/28/2005, the examiner asserts that the claimed language does not clearly point out whether the terminal equipment and the mobile terminal are two separate entities wirelessly connected to each other. Therefore, the claimed limitations "terminal equipment and mobile terminal" can be read on by, for instance, a cellular phone which has a controller/microprocessor connected to a wireless transceiver and the controller/microprocessor can communicate with the cellular network via the wireless transceiver.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 4, 7-9, 11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by the admitted prior art.

Regarding claims 1, 7-8, 11-12, the admitted prior art teaches a method for supporting a data exchange between terminal equipment and a mobile communication network via a mobile terminal, said method comprising at said mobile terminal: receiving from said terminal equipment a request to establish a connection to said mobile communication network for exchanging data; forwarding said request to said mobile communication network; and in case a failure occurs concerning said requested connection and an indication of a cause of said failure is received from said mobile communication network, forwarding said indication to said terminal equipment (see the specification: page 2, lines 13-22).

Regarding claims 4 and 9, the admitted prior art teaches the method according to claim 1, further comprising at said terminal equipment receiving said indication of a cause of a failure from said mobile terminal and presenting a corresponding information to a user of said terminal equipment (see the specification: page 2, lines 22-25).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 2-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the admitted prior art in view of Honda et al. (US 2004/0072580 A1).

Regarding claims 2-3, the admitted prior art teaches the method according to claim 1 except that said failure is a failure resulting in a rejection of said request to said mobile communication network to establish a connection, said indication being an indication of a cause of said rejection. However, the preceding limitation is taught in Honda et al. (see paragraph [0063]). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art, at the time of the invention, to apply the teaching of Honda et al. to the teaching of the admitted prior art in order to prevent the danger that unauthorized access is performed against the electronic device.

6. Claims 5 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the admitted prior art in view of Timm et al. (U.S. 5,890,061).

Regarding claims 5 and 10, the admitted prior art teaches the method according to claim 1 except that the method further comprising at said terminal equipment receiving said indication of a cause of a failure from said mobile terminal and storing said indication for further use.

However, the preceding limitation is taught in Timm et al. (see column 4, lines 12-17). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art, at the time of the invention, to apply the teaching of Timm et al. to the teaching of the admitted prior art in order to provide an emergency cellular communication system having the advantage that any restricted operating modes of an individual cellular telephone are defeated prior to initiating a request for assistance, thereby allowing more reliable connection over a cellular telephone network.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claim 6 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Regarding claim 6, the prior arts fail to teach the method according to claim 1, wherein said terminal equipment is connected to said mobile terminal by a point-to-point protocol connection and wherein said mobile terminal forwards said indication of a cause of a failure in a data field of a link control protocol packet.

Conclusion

8. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
